

The aim of this thesis is to create a real-time strategy game with artificial intelligence in 3D environment. The thesis includes theoretical analysis of combat real-time strategy games, methods for implementing artificial intelligence in this kind of games, and the basic knowledge of 3D environment implementation. A simple 3D real-time strategy game with artificial intelligence has been implemented as a part of this this thesis.